- Current scenario of the prevailing system

BACKGROUND INFORMATION

- ❖ Access to housing is a fundamental human need, yet many individuals face challenges in realizing this basic right due to financial constraints.
- ❖ To address this issue, governments often implement housing allocation schemes, wherein a certain number of houses are built and distributed to eligible citizens through a lottery-based system.
- ❖ While this approach aims to provide equal opportunities to all, it suffers from several drawbacks that hinder its effectiveness and fairness.
- ❖ Even though the system wants to create a new future for all, but some factors affect the well-being of the system.
- ❖ This concept discusses the shortcomings of existing housing lottery systems and proposes an ideal solution for a fairer and more efficient allocation process.

DRAWBACKS OF PREVAILING SYSTEM

DRAWBACKS OF PREVAILING SYSTEM

❖ Verification Bias :

Human involvement in the verification process can lead to unintentional biases or errors, resulting in unfair distribution of houses. Staff members may have conscious or unconscious biases that affect their decision-making during the verification phase.

❖ Broker Exploitation :

Unscrupulous brokers exploit the system by charging token amounts from applicants with false promises of guaranteed registration. Many applicants, especially those with limited knowledge or resources, fall victim to these schemes and end up losing their money without gaining a fair chance in the lottery.

❖ Lack of transparency :

Unscrupulous brokers exploit the system by charging token amounts from applicants with false promises of guaranteed registration. Many applicants, especially those with limited knowledge or resources, fall victim to these schemes and end up losing their money without gaining a fair chance in the lottery.

❖ Time consuming verification :

As the data is verified one by one, it basically causes a lot of stress among the staff members as well as the work is delayed due to this.

A major housing scam of the Maharashtra Housing Area Development Authority's (Mhada) 2011 lottery has brought other scams tumbling out of the closet. Nearly 425 winners of the Mhada housing lottery draw in May 2011 had submitted fake addresses, bank account numbers, and even cellphone numbers. Mhada officials had then constituted an enquiry and sent letters to the winners to appear for a hearing and make their submission. However, only 100 winners made their submission. Most admitted to having filled the forms through brokers. Names of 17 brokers have come before the

EXPECTED OUTCOMES FROM THIS SYSTEM

EXPECTED OUTCOMES FROM THIS SYSTEM

By implementing the proposed solution, we aim to achieve the following outcomes:

- ❖ A fair and Transparent Lottery System.
- ❖ Avoid broker interference.
- ❖ Document uploading avoided due to Number-based verification
- ❖ Reduced instance of fraud and storage space.
- ❖ Reduced the biased application acceptance.
- ❖ Faster and automated authentication and approval.
- ❖ Improved access of housing to users.
- ❖ Increase the efficiency of allotment.
- ❖ Help people to gain their dream by providing equal opportunity to all

CONCLUSION

- ❖ Access to housing is a fundamental human right, and housing lottery systems have the potential to address this need. However, the current systems suffer from various shortcomings.
- ❖ The proposed solution offers a comprehensive approach to address these issues, ensuring that housing allocation is based on merit and luck rather than biases and manipulation.
- ❖ Implementing this solution would result in a fairer and more efficient housing lottery system, ultimately benefiting those in need of shelter and promoting social equity.
- ❖ Currently this project is built on a small scale with a sample database. In future, we would like to expand this system to Government Database too, so that this system can be brought into force with further improvisation.
